The Process of Progress

"Change is the only constant in life, and it is in changing that we find purpose." -Heraclitus

Recently, it seems we're experiencing more and faster change at every turn. On a national level, debates in Congress and the Supreme Court have the potential to dramatically alter the health policy landscape. And on a societal level, we could be witnessing major shifts in response to tragic events in Ferguson, Staten Island, and Cleveland. Resulting demonstrations across the U.S. show us that many Americans are ready for change. Continue reading...
